

State of New York

Executive Chamber

Proclamation

Whereas, the U.S. Department of State and the U.S. Department of Education have declared November 14-18, 2011 as International Education Week to raise awareness of the benefits and value of international education to our Nation's peace and prosperity; and

Whereas, international education and exchange include thousands of programs – public and private, campus-based and national – that promote the sharing of ideas and experiences across borders; these include study abroad programs, citizen and scholarly exchanges, foreign students on U.S. campuses, area and foreign language studies, and global approaches to U.S. education; and

Whereas, by participating in such programs, young citizens can develop a greater appreciation and respect for the people and cultures of other countries, and are more prepared to succeed in a global environment; and

Whereas, we live in an increasingly interconnected world, and improving global literacy among our citizens contributes significantly to our Nation's foreign policy, economic competitiveness, and national security; and

Whereas, in these challenging economic times, the importance of preparing citizens for engaging in a global economy is of paramount importance and can be fostered through educational and cultural exchange; and

Whereas, through international education, the United States can establish a foundation for dialogue and partnership with the rest of the world and improve conditions for lasting global peace, security, and well-being; and

Whereas, New York State has 76,146 international students – the second largest number among all states in the country – and the New York Metropolitan area receives more such students than any other city in the United States; we recognize the tremendous resources that these individuals bring to our State and that they have a significant impact on our economy; and

Whereas, all New Yorkers are encouraged to participate in observing the goals and purpose of this week-long observance and to recognize the importance of international education to our Nation's future;

Now, Therefore, I, Andrew M. Cuomo, Governor of the State of New York, do hereby proclaim November 14-18, 2011 as in the Empire State.

INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK
